Poetry.

Endurance

BY MARY LOWE DICKINSON

For depth of human suffering or joy no measure
Into our hearts is given;
We cannot know our brother's loss or treasure,
His anguish or his heaven.

Oftimes the arrowy sharpness of a sorrow,
Piercing life's common calm
Smites hidden rocks of comfort which to morrow
O'erflow with healing balm

Oftimes we calmest find grief's turbid river
Who trembles on its brink;
Full oft the cup at which our blanched lips quiver
Holds wine of hope to drink.

Wealth burdens that we staggered in the taking;
We walk erect at length;
The bitter blows that bow us e'ne to breaking
Reveal our secret strength.

The turbulent tide of tangible despairing
Beats never unconsoled;
Not so the long, low swell of anguish, bearing
Dumb sorrow manifold.

The common griefs of common souls whose level
Is morals low estate,
Whose voices demand by some loud woe's revel—
In sobbing silence wait;

Wait for one answering cry of recognition,
One star at wart their sky,
One promise of a far off fruition
For hopes that waiting die;

And dying, wake again in ghostly starkness,
Peopling the gloomy grey
That makes their heaven murkier than darkness,
And farther from the day.

For these where is the light? Shall that bright portal
Which, soon or late, swings wide
For every soul, reveal a joy immortal,
Secured the other side?

Shall we our crosses lift, till light upon them
Transfigures all below?
And wear our crowns so long ere we have won them
That all their glory know?

And these who bending drag across in sadness,
Their faces to the dust,
Not carry palms at last? or know the gladness
Of souls that rest and trust?

Is it slow slipping beads, or patient folding
Of stained hands in prayer,
That makes them purer? or the faithful holding
Of what God gives to bear?

Nor all the gathered wisdom of the sages
Can guess God's hidden ways,
And yet the slow unfolding of the ages
Must still show forth His praise.

And all this mystery of pain, our spirits
Can neither bear nor break,
May not be mystery to souls who bear it
For love and for love's sake.

Selected Story.

The Wife's Confession.

BY LAURA SCUTHGATE.

The short winter day was closing in earlier than usual, and a few flakes of snow were beginning to fall. Mattie Greenfield glanced out the window and sighed, a thing she was not much accustomed to do. A sense of the dreariness and solitude of her life depressed her for a moment, and a look of sadness clouded her usually cheerful face. There she was at thirty-four, quite alone in the world. Old acquaintances were married and gone; even dear friends had found new interests, and now the death of her mother, three weeks before, had left her utterly alone. And Mattie sighed, and tears started in her blue eyes as she thought of the happy years that were past.

Ten years. It was twelve years that very night since the sleighing party to Bound Bridge, and she had gone with Ellison Huntley; and David Millard—Mattie smiled as she remembered it—had whispered, as they were dancing, Ellison would get paid off for cutting him out.

All the village thought at the time it was a settled thing betwen David and herself; but David, it appeared, had preferred Sarah Roberts, and six weeks after the sleighing party he had married her.

"Poor Sarah," said to herself; "with everything to make life happy, now she must die, and leave it all."

Scarcely had this thought left her mind when a little figure in a cloak and hood appeared, bobbing along outside the paling in front of her house.

"Why, little Bessie! how strange that I was thinking of her mother that very moment!"

Mattie quickly brought the child in to the fire.

"Why, you are half frozen, Bessie dear, are you not?" she said, warming the little, red, fat hands in her own. "And how is your mother to day?"

"Mother is pretty well—I mean, mother said she wasn't so well, and will you please come over and see her?"

"Dear child!" Mattie's quick sympathies were stirred for the little girl so soon to be left motherless. "Yes, I will come," she said; "and would she like to have me stay all night?"

"I don't know."

"Well, I will stay if she would like to have me."

"Mother said it was particular something particular."

"Well, I will come right away. I will walk home with you."

For some reason the intimacy between Mattie and Sarah Willard had seemed to drop off since Sarah's marriage; still they were friends, and being sent for, was scarce a matter of surprise.

Sarah was dying of consumption; and each visit that Mattie had made for some time she thought might be her last. She put on her things, and giving a few words of household instruction to Jane, her companion and servant, she went with the child.

A pleasant, cheerful home it was where Sarah was closing her life. "You are very good to come," she said, extending her thin hand as Mattie entered the sick room. "I wanted to see you because—because I cannot live much longer, and—" she fixed her eyes earnestly on Mattie's face, and became agitated. A fit of coughing followed.

"Never mind to talk," said Mattie; "I will stay a while with you."

"I wanted to say something; pretty soon—I cannot now."

"Don't try to talk; it makes you cough."

"Pretty soon." An unnatural brightness shone in the eyes of the sick woman; the nurse said a nurvous chill was coming on, and she administered a quieting powder.

"Don't go away," Sarah feebly said. "I will try to talk soon—soon."

The thought that her old friend might have something particular to say to her, did not startle Mattie, but she sat down by the fire in the sitting parlor, and soon David came in. He began to replenish the fire, and seemed pleased that she had come to see his wife. He seemed pleased too, when Bessie came and laid her head on Mattie's shoulder; and then the tea table was spread, and David looked as though he expected her to pour out his cup of tea. He said he hoped a little sleep would do his wife some good, she had seemed so nervous all day. Then they fell to talking of the weather and depth of the snow.

"Let's see; how long is it since that sleighing party to Bound Bridge?" he said, as they drew up to the fire again, after the tea was over. "Just such a cold time as this, I remember; and such a fall of snow." David looked in the fire a good five minutes.

"What now has become of Ellison?" he asked at length, casting a sidelong glance at Mattie.

"I don't know—I am sure;" and the color, with our reason, mounted to Mattie's face.

"He was a good fellow," David went on, "and—well"—and he began to smile—"bygones might as well be bygones." He gave another quick sidelong glance, and hesitated, as though he was touching on delicate ground; "well, whatever secret you may have, or whatever of preference you had then, it is not, I suppose, for me to enquire into."

"I liked Ellison," Mattie remarked, "but perhaps no better than others."

David's look said plainly that women were not expected to speak sincerely on such topics as preferences or love making.

Mattie made no reply; was it not he himself who had suddenly forsaken her, when words of love had passed between them? And was not she, who was once the merriest hearted girl in the village, now alone, and solitary in her life? But the talk went on of old times and old acquaintances, till David lit his lamp and went to bed.

The nurse was asleep, and Mattie sat down by the sick bed. Far in the night Sarah awoke. "Oh, you did not go away did you? I am glad;" said she. I want to speak to you—to tell you something—but it is so hard to say it. It would perhaps, make no difference with you—or with him—if I never tell this—the wrong I did you—but I think I shall feel better to acknowledge it all."

"What is it?" said Mattie, believing Sarah was a little flighty.

"It happened so long ago—I thought so much of David, or I should not have done it—have, I mean, said what I did."

"Said what?" But never mind, dear, you need not tell me; I am sure it was nothing wrong."

"Oh, it was—it was? and you will hate me when I tell you; but when one is going to die, they want to make things right, you know. I shall feel better to tell you what I did. Oh, dear me! I loved David, but I'm sure at that time he loved me. I was determined to marry you, and I made him think you liked Ellison Huntly better than you did him—and that you promised to marry him."

"What made you think I liked Ellison?"

Sarah turned her head impatiently on her pillow. Could not Mattie perceive?

"Oh, I told a story," she went on feebly. "I made David think that you had told me that you were engaged to Ellison. David felt bad when I told him; and I was jealous because he did."

"You need not have told me this if you did not want to," said Mattie.

"No; but I determined to tell you. Some people have said he slighted you; and—when I am gone, if he asks you to marry him, then you would know, and feel towards me as I deserve. I would like to make it right now; but I have done you a wrong. Oh, Mattie, what can I say! I don't expect you will forgive me, but—you will be kind to my dear little Bessie, won't you?"

"I will always be kind to Bessie, whoever may have the care of her," said Mattie. "Go to sleep now, and don't feel worried about anything."

With the dawning light Mattie returned home. Jane had kept the house warm, and an arm-chair ready for her by the fire. The day before she had sat there, and the remembrance of the sleighing party had brought back the happy days of her girlhood; and she had thought of David always choosing her, always seeking her, until abruptly and suddenly he had left her and married Sarah. The mystery was cleared. "It is all for the best," she said, and tried to think so.

A week from that time Sarah Millard was laid in her grave.

David had become accustomed to a lonely fireside; but now that his wife had gone from the home—gone utterly from his life—a terrible sense of dreariness fell upon him. It was insurportable; and he deliberately said to himself that he must get another wife. All the village would have been shocked had they known how soon he said this. And was he unfaithful to the memory of his dear wife? Had not she made married life happy to him? He thought of Mattie. It was true, he reflected, that she had preferred Ellison to himself years ago. For some reason or other, she had not married him.

"Let bygones be bygones," he said, at his first visit to Mattie; and as for Ellison, he guessed he might as well forgive him. He said this with a sly glance which Mattie holding the key to the mystery, understood. She smiled and looked kindly, but explained nothing.

David and Mattie were married; and soon after the wedding, as life was setting into cheerful routine, it happened Ellison Huntly returned to the village for a few days.

David met him with a hearty welcome, and then followed a little bantering talk; and from this was elicited the surprised remark that no engagement had ever taken place between Mattie and himself. "However much I might have wished such a happiness," he added, gallantly.

David reflected. The wife he had first married had deceived him! "But she must have loved me; this shows it—proves it;" he said fondly to himself.

He turned and met Matties blue eyes with a pleasant smile; and he loved her with all his heart.

"Are you very fond of novels, Mr. Jones?" "Very," responded that interrogated gentleman, who wished to be thought by the lady questioner fond of literature. "Have you," continued the lady, "ever read Ten Thousand a year?" "No, madam, I never read so many in my life."

Jefferson Davis has gone to Europe for his health, and left the irascible Foote spoiling for a fight.

The Eucalyptus Globulus.

[The following letter on this remarkable tree now claiming considerable public attention, was addressed to our townsman Rev. P. W. Melick, who has kindly handed it to us for publication. It will doubtless interest many of our readers, especially that portion of the letter describing the mode of cultivation, etc.—EDITOR NORTH CAROLINIAN.]

OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA, January 5th, 1874.

Rev. P. W. MELICK:

Dear Sir:—For a year or more I have noticed articles in public prints, speaking of the wonderful effects the cultivating or planting of the "Eucalyptus" or "Gum Tree," had upon miasmatic or fever and ague localities. You probably have noticed such. I will enclose a scrap clipped from one of my papers of yesterday, it eminated from very high authority and no doubt is reliable. You might infer, however, from the statement, that it required a swamp or very wet soil for its propagation, not so in fact, it thrives equally well in average dry soil. As an illustration, 5 years ago was planted in my yard two small plants from the seed the same year, mere twigs, size of pipe stems 18 inches high. One of them I have just measured and find that it is a 14 inches in diamatur, how high it would have been by this I cannot tell, as every season I have cropped them back, but notwithstanding they are now some 25 to 30 feet high, and this is no extra or uncommon growth, soil not rich, and was in its natural state, never having been cultivated before. You know in this State we have no rains to amount to any benefits for some 4 or 5 months, or in all the summer months. Through the first summer these trees were watered by hand, never since only by natural winter rains. Character of soil is sandy loam, and water is found about 20 feet below the surface. From this you will infer that any locality, as far as soil and moisture is concerned, will suit the requirements of the tree, Climate must be taken into consideration for this particular kind. Some others of the variety are much harder, and will stand more severe winter cold. Tried them in Shaster Co., this kind, where frosts are more common, and found that in the first stage of growth first and second year, when more like an annual weed than shrub or tree, full of sap and pith, and they would not thrive. Your climate I think is in all respects a very productive one, and should it have the effect upon it as represented to have had upon similar pestilential countries, will be very desirable to plant in cultivation, not that the few seeds I herewith send, will produce enough of trees to absorb all the malarial elements existing in your neighborhood, but there may be sufficient, if judiciously planted on your place to protect from chills and fevers to some extent, and if it succeed well in growth, and you and neighbors should believe in its efficatious effects you can soon redeem the whole country. Through last summer when I would see one of those articles alluded to, I would think of you and yours, and promised myself that as soon as proper season arrived for planting I would send you a few seeds for trial, and strangely enough I found on application for my seed a gentleman had just ordered some to be sent to Col. Martin's * address, and your very Post Office.

Propagation of the seed is simple and easy, though perhaps it will be well to sow in boxes that can be easily moved about, so that while germinating they can be kept in tolerable even temperature. Next month I should think a good time to plant in your climate, and next year or one year old, they will be ready to plant in place. In transplanting, endeavor to move with a ball of earth attached. I do not know how severe you have frosts, but it may be well to afford them some protection the first and second winters. The nursery men here place the small plants in pots from these they are very easily transplanted without retarding the growth, and little or no risk of dying from removal. You will find it necessary for several years to use the knife freely trimming back, for when grown singly they become top heavy. The stem or body being very slender, keep the top and shoots off back, and the body will soon thicken and support itself. In this place it is in much favor as a street and avenue tree, it is evergreen. With a hope that you will meet with sucess in its cultivation, and reap benefits from its important sanitary properties I will quit the subject for the present, but will be ready and with pleasure, to render you any further information I can at your request for me to do so.

Yours respectfully,

CHAS. CAMDEN.

(* Col. Martin, as we mentioned a few weeks ago left us a package of the seed received. We have distributed it freely. —ED. N. C.)

Poor Girls.

The poorest girls in the world are those who have never been brought up to work. Rich parents have petted them, they have been taught to despise labor, and to depend upon others for a living, and are perfectly helpless. If misfortune comes upon their friends, as it often does, their case is hopeless. The most forlorn and miserable women on earth belong to this class. It belongs to parents to protect their daughters from this deplorable condition. They do them great wrong, if they neglect it.

Every daughter should be taught to earn her own living. The rich as well as the poor require this training. The wheel of fortune rolls swiftly round—the rich are very likely to become poor and the poor rich. Skill to labor is no disadvantage to the rich, and is indispensible to the poor. Well-to-do parents must educate their daughters to work; no reform is more imperative than this.

Mr. Robert Dale Owen, in referring to the traditional administration for "Italy's dark-eyed daughters," said "he had seen more handsome girls in New York or Boston in five weeks than he saw in Itily throughout five years."

A very dull person once succeeded in raising a laugh after the following fashion: When a witty neighbor set the table in a roar, he exclaimed, "By Jupiter I would have said that myself, if I had only thought of it."

The Illinois House of Representatives has just passed a compulsory education bill by a large

ON THE ICE.

The following, from the pen of the humorous editor of the Barnesville (O.,) Enterprise, will be appreciated by our Northern patrons here who, at their "old home," used to "go a skating." Oh what jolly good times they were!

We have now several skating parks in the vicinity of Barnesville, where the youth of both sexes are enjoying themselves, especially by moonlight. The ice is lovely; so is the female portion of the skaters; in fact everything is lovely, winterish and jolly. It is a rich scene to stand and watch the skaters of a moonlit night. What a confusion of sounds; the silvery laugh; the excited yell; the clear, crisp sound of the skates; the hum of many voices—all mingling in a harmonious whole, are borne along on the keen frosty air.

There comes a couple arm-in-arm, doing more towards rendering Cupid's darts available, than they would in a year of sober courtship. Here is an individual who, though a very poor skatist, is evidently a first-class drinkist: there are two hundred pounds of softe. sex, leaning heavily on the arm of a watery eyed youth; here is the bloomin youth who does tremendous figures just when the ladies and spectators are looking on. Here is an article made up of hoops, wire and cotton, with blushes on her cheeks that never fade until they are washed, and wrinkles on her face that neither washing nor powdering will take out, an article that throws killing glances at the men, both young and old; that laughs, giggles, flirts and skates, and still remains single—in fact the traditional "old girl." Here is a couple trying to do that which we have good authority for stating cannot be done, two things at once: Eating ginger bread and talking love.

The ladies who wear hats on the back of their head, should be very careful how they are fastened on. How the diminutive capillary ornament is kept in its place we haven't the slightest idea; but if it's glued on, or, by whatever arrangement it is held on, they should make assurance doubly sure, for it is both humiliating and distressing to see the little thing go scudding over the ice, and being trampled on; and then, too, it is very embrassing to Charles Augustus to be obliged to skate after it, and hand it back to its fair owner.

Those young gentlemen who go skating, if they want particularly to enjoy themselves, generally take a lady with them—young and handsome, of course—and we would particularly recommend a lady that can't skate. It's true she has to hang on his arm, and he has to hold her up, and he has to stop every minute and fix her skates; and, in fact, he don't make much progress generally, but the she utters such delightful cries, such frantic little yells of fright; she clutches at him in such a bewitching, loveable way; and then she entreats him to let her go it alone, and then immediately tumbles back into his arms; and then she falls down and he has to pick her up, and then they both fall down together; and all the while she is laughing so rogueishly, and her cheeks get so red, and her eyes so bright. Oh my! but it is delightful.

THE USURY QUESTION.

One of the would-be wise men of our Legislature offered a resolution for a law by Congress fixing a uniform rate of interest throughout the country, with such a penalty as will insure obscrvance of the law." The resolution indicates, on the part of the gentleman proposing it, such a lack of acquaintance with the facts relating to interest, that out of simple charity we avoid mentioning his name.

Everybody who has paid any attention at all to the subject knows that the price of the use of money is determined, like the price of everything else, by the ratio of supply to demand; and every law which perates to make the supply less or harder to obtain, raises the price. Very correctly observes a cotemporary, a man who is in need of money for a short time to meet his engagements—failure to meet which might involve savings of his whole life—will have money for the necessities of the hour, no matter what the price he has to pay for its use. On the other hand, if some one wants to borrow his savings, he may not care to loan at all; but a man who needs the money badly will, rather than not have it, offer him such terms as will induce him to lend. Now, if the law forbids this, it works injury not to the lender but to the borrower, who, is driven by such prohibitions, if they have any effect into the hands of "sharks" who lend at great risks. Men who have money to invest are not commonly obliged to lend it out at interest at all unless they choose to do so.

THE INEXHAUSTIBLE MAGIC INK-STAND.—The Proprietors have sent us one of their Ink-stands and after trial we are prepared to pronounce it one of the most wonderful discoveries and inventions of the age—the chemical combination producing the ink and the ink stand in which it is kept. All that has to be done is to add a little pure, cold water and you have a fine black fluid, which flows freely, has no sediment and does not corrode the pen. It needs no other supply than a little more water when it is too low for the pen. On sending $2 to ROOT, ANTHONY & Co., 62 Liberty Street, New York, you will get one by mail.

Our worthy friend R. P. Bunting, the deputor and reliable boarding officer at Old Point, has been promoted to Deputy Collector, with authority to enter and clear vessels at that port. Paul is a true disciple of progress, and in his new position will greatly facilitate commerce, by giving all vessels that come in for orders quick dispatch, and accommodate the merchant marine generally.—Norfolk Day Book.

Mr. BUNTING is a patron and an occasional correspondent to the NORTH CAROLINIAN. He is a capital good fellow and we are sincerely glad to hear of his promotion.

The Washington, N. C., Express has changed hands, D. N. BOGART becoming editor. "It takes a fair and square stand in favor of the county subscription to the Jamesville and Washington Railroad. In his salutatory the new editor promises to advocate and defend "Conservative Democratic principles," "at the same time vituperating wrong in the party or out of it." Now we don't admire that word vituperating. It is something high toned journalism ought to have nothing to do with. After second thought, brother BOGART, don't you think so too?

SUGGESTION TO OUR FARMERS

We believe that much valuable information could be gained by intelligent farmers if they spent a little time, now and then, in visiting different farms. They would find it to be one of the most useful employments they could engage in. They would soon realize that it would be the getting of the necessary knowledge of their business. Not only the best farmers, but the poorest also, may be visited with advantage. An eminent farmer once told us that he never visited a farm, of whatever character, but he found something useful to him.

A man's failures are instructive as well as his success. To know what to avoid is often very important. It is always to be regarded, as in its exercise the closest judgment is often required. What we have about us, what we see, in trains us, whether at home or abroad, I know is of the most importance This is especially so with farming. Your adjoining your neighbor's comes under the conditions for success. What grains will do best on such and such soil; what grass, what fruits,—all this is important and will be tested. It is so important that it can hardly be overestimated. Your neighbor tests it for you—you need but engage in it, avoiding the failures and securing the success.

Farmers! you should make this a business. Take pains to do it; make it as regularly a part of farming as saving and securing manure. Direction and parade everything, and this comes directly under this head. Farmers are always willing to communicate, and a man can see for himself. He needs but to keep his eyes open." There are all kinds of success and non success. You need but look and see for yourselves and be benefited.

HOW TO ENCOURAGE IMMIGRATION

Among the hundreds of people from the North who have visited Eastern North Carolina, there has not been one in twenty that has been unfavorably impressed. Not only the climate but the boundless resources, undeveloped, yet within reach—accessible to the hand of industry and enterprise and capital, attract them all. They see it and all express their conviction that the foundation is there to build upon; that eventually this must become a rich and prosperous country. But they all likewise frankly tell us this must be done by immigration; that immigration does not divorce from railroads; and that to secure it we must have a railroad. This is the great power of nearly all. And it is true.

That this country is slowly and surely improving all admit. But it is too slow. A friend now and then attracting an immigrant of the class we need—men of energy, experience and means—we want a few of the thousands to come and fuse with our intelligent native element, and then we can build up a population that will astonish the old Bourbons and silence the old fogies. But it may be set down as a fact that we will not get them in any number until we have a railroad. These kind of people—those who develope and build up a country—can't be induced to go beyond the reach of this great agent of modern civilization. They won't locate out of the way of quick transit to and from the business centres of the country.

To encourage immigration and to secure it—all our people should foster and also urge legislative public improvements. They should talk for them, work for them and at every opportunity vote for them.

THE INDIAN QUESTION.

Gen. HARNEY, of the Army, who has had a large experience in dealing with the Indians, addressed the House Military Committee the other day. He favored the peace policy, but advocated the transfer of the Indian bureau to the War department. He believed that if Indians were treated fairly there never would be any difficulties with them. He had known but two instances in which they ever violated treaty stipulations, and in those the Indians were to be excused, for the treaties had grown old before they were enforced, and the chiefs and head men who made them were all dead. The troubles with the Indians were principally caused by the fraudulent agents and by whiskey-dealers. He had never known an Indian agent who had not grown rich in the office, but one. On being asked how the whiskey-sellers could be suppressed, he answered, without hesitation, that they should be hanged or shot by the nearest military officer.

Our readers will agree with us that this is highly colored: "The lilacs are budding," says a Wisconsin editor. "You lie like Satan," responds one of his readers. "You violet truth," politely replies the editor.

It is a serious question in the minds of a large number of prominent and leading men in the State whether the Legislature from and after the date of the official announcement of the adoption of the new Constitution is a legal Legislature. If not, and we are strongly of the opinion that it is not, then all its acts and proceedings since that date are null and void. The new Constitution is now the fundamental law of the State, and in it there is no clause or provision convening extending or legalizing the present Legislature.

The deed is done. The bill changing this Judicial District has passed the Senate as we predicted. It was earnestly opposed by Messrs CHAMBERLAIN, GRANDY and RANSOM, the Senators representing the counties of the District, but without avail.

The Legislatuse was to have adjourned on Monday, but some of the Democratic members were anxious to hold on to their per diem a little longer. Whether their wishes were gratified we did not learn up to going to press.

A Boston man was cursing an editor the other day when he fell dead. Several similar instances have been lately reported,—Ex.

Let this be a warning. People should be careful in speaking evil of anything sacred.

Quite a number of young men in this city are attending a night school, where Latin is taught.—Reading (Pa.) Gazette.

We were in that city once, and we saw a crowd who had got as far as "Hic."

It is not generally known that North Carolina is the only State in the Union which produces every article enumerated in the Census Report of 1870. And yet it is the fact.

From Washington.

In the United States Senate Mr. Hagan successor to Senator Casserly of California, was sworn in, also James, N. Hawley, Senator from Kansas, and B. N. Pease, Senator from Missisippi, were sworn in. Much time was taken up in discussing the finances and currency. The amended Bankrupt bill was passed. The most important of these amendments relate to the manner of forcing a debtor into involuntary bankruptcy. It is provided that when any debtor attempts to give prefference to one or more of his creditors by making a transfer of his property, or of confessing judgment, or when a banker, broker, merchant, trader, manufacturer or miner suspends payment of his commercial paper for forty days, he shall be adjudged a bankrupt on the petition of at least one fourth of his creditors in number, the aggregate of whose claims amount to at least one third the entire indebtedness. The provision applies to all cases that have been commenced since the 1st of December 1873. The fees, commissions and allowances of assignees and others are reduced one half. In addition to the officers now authorized to take proof of debts against the estate of a bankrupt, Notaries Public are authorized to take such proof. The bill for the equalizing of the National banking currency was discussed.

In the House speeches were made on the Currency, the Tariff and the Civil Rights bill. The Army appropriation bill was considered and an amendment adopted providing for the transferring of all claims for supplies furnished the army during the late war, now pending in the Quartermaster General's Department, to the Claims Commission. Another amendment was adopted extending the time for filing claims to November 1st 1875. The Committee on Indian Affairs reported two bills, both of which were immediately passed, to secure the more efficient and honest administration of Indian affairs. The first authorizes the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to examine all contracts made prior to May 21, 1871, and to endorse upon them whether they were exorbitant and fraudulen or not, and until such endorsement is made all officers and employes of the United States are prohibited from recognizing the validity of such contracts The second provides that all books, papers, contracts, records of sales, vouchers, etc., shall be considered public property, subject to examination and inspection, under liability of fine and imprisonment in case of refusal.

An Act in Reference to Chattel Mortgages.

Sec. 1. The General Assembly do enact. That if any person or persons who have heretofore executed a chattel mortgage or deed in trust, or given a lien, or may hereafter execute a chattel mortgage, deed in trust or lien for a lawful purpose, shall, after the execution of same, and while it is in force, make any disposition of any personal property embraced in said chattel mortgage, deed of trust or lien with intend to hinder, delay or defeat the rights of the person or persons to whom the said chattel mortgage, deed in trust or lien was made, such person or persons so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisonment not exceeding one month.

Sec. 2. That growing crops shall be considered personal property within the the meaning of this act.

Sec. 3. That this act shall be in force from and after its ratification.

In General Assembly read three times and ratified this, 20th day of December, A. D. 1873.

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.
Dear Sir—I have not words to express my gratitude to you for your advice and assistance in my case. There is not one who has used your medicines since they have been brought here but that can say with me they have been greatly benefited. Since I have been so helped by its use or seven around me left off all doctors and other medicines, and now use it in there families, after being cured of the same disease as mine. You do not know what a wonder it created in our city, by its restoring my sister I wrote you about, for she had been under the care of three of our best doctors but could not sit up but for a few minutes at one time. I begged of her to try your medicines, and before she had used half of the bottles she could go all around the yard, and was now just come home from a visit five miles away.

He is worth at least $25,000,000, and began life without a penny as the driver of a canal boat on the Lehigh canal. The whole State is being overrun by the "movement," and it is spreading to other States. It has been taken up in Massachusetts, where prohibitory legislation has been virtually a failure. The women, by an organized effort, visit the liquors saloons and literally pray and talk the liquor sellers in to abandoning their business. A dispatch says, "The movement spreads like the epizootic."

A sort of post-mortem examination of the Democratic party in Illinois has just been held at Springfield: The members of the party in the Legislature came to the conclusion that the organization was dead beyond hope of resurrection, and a declaration to that effect was about decided upon when Gov. Hendricks of Indiana "happened" along and changed the feeling of the meeting from despondency to a faint glimmering of hope. In his opinion, 3,000,000 of Democratic voters constituted too strong a party to disband. He thought it better to wait and hope a little longer. Commenting upon the meeting, The Chicago Tribune recognizes a very familiar acquaintance in the 3,000,000 voter parable, and says: "We venture to predict that, whatever he or the members of the Legislature may do, there will be no Democratic party in the field of Illinois politics next Fall."

PAIN-KILLER

after thorougher trial by innumerable living witnesses, has proved it self THE MEDICINE OF THE AGE. It is an internal and external remedy. One positive proof of its efficacy is that its sales have constantly increased, and wholly upon its own merits. The effect of the

upon the patient when taken internally, in case of Cold, Cough, Bowel Complaints, Cholera, Dysentery, and other afflictions of the system, has been truly wonderful, and has won for it a name among medical preparations that can never be forgotten. Its success in removing pain, as an external remedy, in cases of Burns, Bruises, Sores, Sprains, Cuts, Stings of Insects, and other causes of suffering, has secured for it such testimony, as an infallible remedy that it will be handed down to posterity as one of the greatest medical discoveries of the nineteenth century.

THE PAIN-KILLER

derives much of its popularity from the simplicity attending its use, which gives it a peculiar value in a family. The various diseases which may be reached by it, and in their incipient stages eradicated, are among those which are peculiarly fatal if suffered to run; but the curative magic of this preparation at once disarms them of their terrors. In all respects it fulfills the conditions of a popular medicine.

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

Questions to be Considered in Buying a Machine.

What are the desirable features of a Family Sewing Machine?

It must be simple in construction, that it may be easily learned, and not liable to get out of order; silent in its operation—rapid in the execution of work—easily changed from one kind of work to another—capable of doing every variety of work—must run easy, so as not to fatigue the operator, and with all these, must be durable.

GENTS.—I have had in my family for some time an improved Wheeler & Wilson Machine, and am confident it is the best family Sewing Machine in use; for several reasons, viz! It runs lighter, makes less noise, is more durable and does a greater variety of work with no trouble to apply the attachments.

M. B. CULPEPPER.
E. City, N. C., Nov. 8th, 1873.

Affidavit of N. B. Stoops.—I have visited all the principal Sewing Machine manufactories, and have had the best facilities for finding out not only what was the best, but why it was best. Wheeler & Wilson is the simplest in parts, the most direct, quiet and rapid in action of any two-thread Machines. Other Machines cannot keep up with it. I now sell all kinds and ten of them to one of any other. Others come back for exchange, with many murmurs and complaints. These never; once sold they are gone; as an article af merchandise, they are always saleable. Richmond, Va., June 25 1871.

Battleboro, N. C. Aug., 8, 1871.

Dear Sir: In reply to your inquiry as to how I like my Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine, I would state that it gives entire satisfaction. And the onger I use it, the more I am pleased with it. I prefer it to all others, for the following reasons; It runs so lightly that it produces no fatigue to operate it, and makes so little noise that it can scarcely be heard across the room. It makes a beautiful lock stich, which is alike on both sides of the fabric sewed, and which is not only a great saving in thread, but will not ravel out like the work done on chain stitch Machines. It is simple and easy to manage, and is adapted for all kinds of family sewing. It has no equal.

Respectfully, Miss E. R. POOL.

Dinwiddie Co., Va., August 14, 1871.

I have owned a Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine for 18 years and I have done the best, as well as the heaviest work upon it. For 3 years during the war, a colored girl in my employ made soldiers' clothing upon it. It is still in good order, and has never cost me but 25 cents for repairs. If I had to purchase another Machine, I would have none but a

Wheeler & Wilson. Mrs. WM. P. DAVIS.

This is to certify that this Machine, No. 5,230, is the same one that we purchased in the year 1856, and have been using ever since, until the present time, when we have exchange it for a new one. JULIA S. SELDEN.

Local and Personal

☞ There will be a "Hop" at Camden C. H., on Friday evening of this week.

☞ The latest quotations are: At New York, Gold 112¼; Cotton 16½c; Corn 76@80c. At Norfolk, Cotton 14½c; Corn 75c.

☞ We are surprized to be obliged to explain that our notice "Read This" in our last issue only applied to those who are not delinquents.

☞ A gentleman at Espy, Pa., in a letter enclosing his subscription, dated Feb. 9th, says: "Snow six inches deep here. Sleighing good."

☞ In the letter on our first page will be found some directions about planting and propagating the Eucalyptus Globulus which will probably interest some of our readers.

☞ THOMAS EVANS, of Chowan County, while out riding on the 31st ult., was attacked with apoplexy and fell from his buggy. He was found dead in the road between Centre Hill and Hertford. He was about 60 years of age.

☞ Col. W. E. ROGERS, President of the Dismal Swamp Steam Transportation Company was in the city last week. As is his custom when he visits Elizabeth City, he called in and paid his respects to the NORTH CAROLINIAN. He is not only very popular but he is a true friend of progress and improvement.

☞ Would that all who take and read the NORTH CAROLINIAN were as honestly sensitive as one of our patrons "out West," who writes us:

Enclosed please find a Postal Order for $3, which will pay my subscription up to Jan. 1, 1875. I can't stand being dunned."

Our friend's "head is level." Hereafter he will feel and know that reminders to delinquents don't mean him.

☞ Since our last issue we have had another crowd of visitors from the North—mostly business men from Philadelphia; Camden, N. J.; Elmira, N. Y.; Lock Haven, Pa.; Horse Heads, N. Y.; Bellfonte, Pa., and other points. Some of them have come to spend a few weeks recreation in our milder climate, others with a view to ultimately make investments. They all unite with us in one thing, and that is with better transportation—a railroad or a ship canal, one or both—this country must become wealthy and prosperous. Fellow citizens! we must have it.

☞ It is surprising how many people there are who take all the trouble to prepare an article, more or less elaborate, for publication, or write a long letter, and then seal its fate by failing to sign their names to it! Everybody knows, or ought to know, that editors, as a rule take no notice of anonymous communications; they ought to know, also, that when the writer makes a request that his name should be regarded as furnished in confidence, that request will be complied with. We have on our table several articles which might be published if the writers had sent their names. It is possible that the writers, in some cases, take it for granted that we will recognize their handwriting. This we cannot always do. A person writing for or to a newspaper should always give his or her full name and address.

☞ There are just now quite a number out of employment. In times like these, when there is a competition for labor, the men are mostly employed who have shown that they take pride in the trade or work in which they are engaged, while those who are indifferent are obliged to go begging for something to do. Ah, there is an essential difference in the two classes. That keen observer of men and things, the talented author of "Adam Bede," in one of her characters, thus expresses it:

"I can't abide to see men throw away their tools i' that way the minute the clock begins to strike, as if they took no pleasure i' their work and was afraid o' doing a stroke too much. I hate to see a man's arms drop down as if he was shot before the clock's fairly struck, as if he'd never a bit o' pride and delight in his work. The very grindstone'll go on turning a bit after you leave it."

☞ An honest editor can't manufacture news. If events of interest don't occur he is not responsible for it. And yet people are apt, when they take up their local paper to exclaim. "What little home news this week." So far as the NORTH CAROLINIAN is concerned it pays all possible attention to local affairs. Its editor tries to make a note of every passing event of home interest, and he even feels under obligations to all who take the trouble to send him accounts of things happening in their neighborhood, such as sudden deaths, the decease of prominent citizens, marriages, accidents, important improvements, the condition of the crops, etc. All these things the people desire to know and they always add to the interest of the paper. Friends! we have time and again asked you to send us reports of these things. We repeat the request now. Send us the facts. Do it in your own way and we will take pleasure in putting them in shape for publication.

☞ A correspondent from Murfreesboro informs us that a Grand Concert was held in the chapel of the "Wesleyan Female College" on the 12th, inst. It was quite a success and the young ladies of the College acquitted themselves handsomely. Several young ladies from this city and vicinity are now attending school there.

☞ Knowing that we feel and take a deep interest in everything effecting the welfare of the people of this section, not a week passes but some one from some part of this and adjoining counties calls to see us, to talk,—sometimes upon education and the condition of our schools, sometimes upon the Railroad (which is by no means abandoned—is not "dead," as a few weeks will show,) sometimes upon general improvements and other questions of public interest. To all such our office "latch string" is ever out. We welcome these visits, and we can at any time spare an hour to "compare notes" upon any of these topics, for to us the time thus spent is generally pleasant—often profitable. In this way we very often obtain information not to be got from any other source, for among these people, even in the common walks of life, are men of real, solid, good sense. Indeed many of the latter class know more and their suggestions are worth more than they get credit for. We repeat that we can always spare a little time to talk upon any of the topics discussed by the NORTH CAROLINIAN—subjects connected with the growth, development and resources of this portion of the good "Old North State." Call in gentlemen! you are always welcome.

LOCAL PORT-FOLIO.

People we have to "put up" with—hotel keepers. A noisy peace of crockery—the cup that cheers. Not a case of necessity—a cigar case. The origin of Easter eggs—a hen. The latest decision of the Supreme Court—"learn to labor and to Waite." Now growing at both ends—daylight. Men of time—watch makers. The song last Saturday—"Oh let me be your Valentine."

LOCAL ITEMS.—If you want good Oysters go to Capt. LYON'S Saloon, just opposite the CAROLINIAN office.—The Sheppard Street Mill is making the best Meal in the Market.—In going about the City we see a number of improvements in progress. A good sign.—During the past few weeks our town has been full of strangers from the North. Our people give them a hearty welcome.—Whitecombs have their gang saws in operation. They eat up a log at "one gulp."—The ringing of one of the church bells wakened up the people of our town at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. The first thought was "a fire," but fortunately it proved to be a marriage the ceremony was performed in the Episcopal Church that early for the party to leave on the morning boat. By the notice in another part of this issue it will be seen that another of Elizabeth City's fair daughters is gone!—Our Norfolk exchanges failed this week.

Business Locals.

Notwithstanding the "money pressure" Fowler keeps on selling good fast and for the cash.

We call especial attention to the advertisement Edw'd J. Evans & Co., Nurserymen and Seedsmen, at York, Pa.

"Low prices will count" and Fowler's daily sales are increasing.

Attention is called to the Drugs, Medicines, Books, Surgical Instruments and other fixtures advertised to be sold at Hertford on the 28, inst.

We doubt whether there is any Wholesale House as popular anywhere among North Carolina Dealers as that of Lowenburg & Jacobs, 22 & 24 Market Square, Norfolk, Va.

A London genius has invented the "anti-breach-of-promise ink," warranted to fade entirely away in a month.

Mr. John G. Saxe, our well-known American poet, sent the following epigram in reply to an invitation to address a temperance convention:

"You have heard of a snake in the grass, my boy;
Of a terrible snake in the grass;
But now we must know,
Man's deadliest foe
Is a snake of a different class.
Alas!
'Tis a venomous snake in the glass."

A correspondent of the St. Louis Democrat says that he saw Parson Weems in the year 1803 in the county of New Kent, Va., and his father bought from him his "Life of Washington" for the writer, who was then thirteen years old, to read. The book was not then deemed a fiction, either by the young or the old. The writer adds that everybody in Virginia believed the hatchet story when it was written and were believing it in 1846, when he left the Old Dominion for Missouri.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST SICKNESS.—The ability of the human body to resist the causes of disease depends upon its vigor and upon the regularity with which the several organs perform their functions. In the winter the most prolific sources of sickness are damp and cold, and it is therefore wise and prudent to fortify the system against them by wholesome stimulation. Hence it is that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters prove such an admirable safeguard against the complaints most common at this season. The ingredients of this powerful vegetable invigorants comprise those essential medicinal elements which act simultaneously upon the digestion, the circulation, the secretions, and the nerves, infusing strength and regularity into all. In this way the Bitters put the body in the best possible condition to escape an attack of rheumatism, of intermittent fever, or indigestion, or biliousness, or of pulmonary disease. Cold and damp are very depressing; almost as much so as excessive heat and a protective medicine is quite needful in winter as in summer. The commercial stimulants so unwisely taken in the form of drams to "keep out the cold," have a precisely opposite effect to that produced by Hostetter's Bitters. Their first result is succeeded by a reaction which devitalizes and prostrates the system; while, on the other hand, the tonic and vitalizing operation of the great vegetable invigorant, is not only immediate but permanent. There is no revulsion, no reverse nervous action. The physique is strengthened, the appetite increased, bowels regulated, the stomach reinforced, and these conditions continue. Dyspepsia rheumatism, or biliousness, or intermittent fever or general debility, or nervous weakness, is present in the system, expel it with this pure and harmless antidote which is not only invaluable as a preventive of sickness, but also a remedy for a large class of disorders.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL.

Absolutely safe. Perfectly odorless. Always uniform. Illuminating qualities superior to gas. Burns in any lamp without danger of exploding or taking fire. Manufactured expressly to displace the use of volatile and dangerous oils. Its safety under every test, and its perfect burning qualities are proved by its continued use in over 500,000 families. Millions of gallons have been sold and no accident—directly or indirectly—has ever occurred from burning, storing or handling it.

The immense yearly loss of life and property, resulting from the use of cheap and dangerous oils in the United States, is appalling.

The Insurance Companies and fire Commissioners brought out the country round and the ASTRAL as the best safeguard when lamps are used. Send for circular.

FARM FOR SALE.

I hereby offer my Farm for sale. This Farm is situated about 80 rods from the City limits; is bounded on one side by a public and on the other side by a private road; is well fenced and ditched, has a comfortable tenant house and small barn and shed thereon, also two good wells and an orchard consisting of 127 young bearing apple and peach trees and several old apple trees upon it. The land is under a high state of cultivation, and within the last two years I have put 200 bushels of lime and 700 loads of manure on said place. The Farm comprises sixty acres all improved and there is no swamp or low land on it. It is one of the best cotton and truck farms in the County, beside being well adapted for corn, oats, flax, &c. Any body wishing to purchase such a farm, can probably make a better bargain with me than anywhere else in the United States, unless they buy some poor land at public sale. If you don't think so please write me, addressing as below.

Bradley's PATENT; ENAMEL Paint.

MADE FROM

PURE WHITE LEAD, LINSEED OIL & ZINC, Chemically Combined.

Will last three times as long as the best lead and oil mixed in the ordinary way.

Always ready for use. Sold by the gallon

One Gallon covers Twenty square yards two coats.

We sepecially call the attention to the following testimonials of the Paint:

FROM PROF. W. G. SIMMONS.
WAKE FOREST COLLEGE, N. C., October 4th, 1873.

Mr. C. P. KNIGHT,

Dear Sir:—We have for several months been using your Bradley's Patent Enamel Paint on our College Building and are well pleased with it.

Though it was applied by one having no experience in such work yet we have a good job We shall continue to use it—believing that in point of economy, durability, and facility of application it is superior to any other pigment offered in the market. Very Respectfully,

W. G. SIMMONS.

DARNESTOWN, Montgomery County, Md., October 6th, 1873.

Mr. KNIGHT, Sole Agent for Bradley's Patent Enamel Paint,

Dear Sir:—I received your favor of the 3rd inst., asking my opinion of the Bradley's Patent Enamel Paint, for which you are Agent.

It affords me pleasure to add my testimonial with many others, of its value and thorough adaptation to the rural District especially. Having a practical experience of thirty years in preparing plans and building with all branches of artisans and mechanics, and used most of the material for painting. I was induced to try Bradley's Patent Enamel Paint," owing to its portability, being mixed of all shades, and quantities to suit, I applied it for inside and outside work and found it dried thoroughly, covered the surface perfect, and dried with a beautiful Enamel Lustre and covered 20 square yards two coats, I have recommended its use to others in the City of Washington and lower Maryland, with equal satisfaction and good results. Mixing colors by ordinary mechanics is not often done to the satisfaction of "Proprietors" and "Paint" being "already mixed" all desired shades, and frequently to suit, renders it more desirable in Rural Districts. I cheerfully recommend its general use and feel assured that all who use it will be satisfied that it is all that is claimed "Durable, Beautiful and Economical.

Yours respectfully,
JNO. L. DUFIEF, Architect & Builder

BALTIMORE, December 10th 1872.

Mr. C. P. KNIGHT—DEAR SIR: It affords me much pleasure to say to you that the Bradley Patent Enamel Paint far exceeds my expectation in economy and beauty, and I have every reason to believe, in durability. More than twelve months since, I painted the roof of my Hotel (Mansion House) with the Bradly Patent Enamel Paint, and I was so well pleased with it, I determined to paint the outside of the Hotel, and am most happy to state it gives me perfect satisfaction. In conclusion I will say, if this testimonial will be of any advantage to you, you are at liberty to use it.

Yours, most respectfully, ISAAC ALBERTSON,
Mansion House Hotel, N. W. Cor. Fayette and St., Paul Streets, Baltimore.

From Hon. JOHN WETHERED.

Mr. C. P. KNIGHT: At the recommendation of a friend, I was induce to apply your patent 'Bradley's' paint to my house. I have pleasure in stating that it has proved highly satisfactory, covering more surface then you promised, is more economical, carries better gloss than ordinary paint, and is free from disagreeable odor. Yours, Respectfully JOHN WETHERED

THE PLAINS, Fauquier county, Va., keg, 5 gallons.

Mr. C. P. KNIGHT, Sir: The paint came safely to hand as ordered—two kegs, five gallons each, and three bucket, one gallon each. As practice was slack, I did the job myself. Two weeks, (not constant work,) completed the house two coats. And it is now generally conceded that for enamel-like harness and body, and harmony of colors, there is not a handsomer job in the place. I saved sixty-five dollars by the operation, which is more than a small item just now with Southern people. It should be generally adopted in this State. Any country lad can apply it. I have never dabbled in such stock as Testimonials, but I feel so forcibly the great adaptability of your "Patent Paint" to the wants of our people, in excellence of material, in beauty of color, and in the fact of its being "ready mixed" that I give you free permission, (if it be desirable to you) to make such use you think proper of this letter.

Very respectfully and truly, S. McGILL, M. D.

PLEASANTVILLE Hartford county, Maryland February 26th, 1873.

Mr. C. P. KNIGHT—Dear Sir; I am very happy to inform you that your Patent Enamel Paint has given entire satisfaction. I prefer it to any other Paint I have ever seen used, and recommend it for durability and beauty paramount to any other.

Very respectfully, R. DICKEY, M. D.

Farmer Jones Speaks.

He a things have changed! I've always thought and father thought the same.
That so a boy could read, add well, and plainly
sign his name,
He had learned enough and knew enough to manage any farm;
That books and papers were all trash, and of'en did him harm.

Has things have changed—Why bless my soul!
'twas but the other day
In town, at Smith's I got so mix'd, I didn't know what to say—
They spoke of things, all Dutch to me, of which I never had heard,
And if I had, knew nothing of, so I couldn't say a word.

There's Johnson, once my hired man—he lives across the way—
With his speck of a farm, knows more than me,
and beats me every day;
His land looks clean, his crops do well, his house is good as new;
He owns no man, and what is more, is making money too.

And the Harper lad—a boy I say!—old Squire
Harper's son—
College bred—a lawyer too—and at farming
just begun,
Sticks to it well, although he says, (I tell you
he don't shirk,)
That he knows only the theory, and that
Seth Brown does the work.

Now Brown himself don't read, 'tis true, but never will pass by
Anything from books, he listens well, and then begins to try—
That's the way they manage things, and switch
me! if I know
A prettier farm than Harper's, in the valley here below.

My children too, in spite of all I've done to keep them back,
Have learned a little—but why talk more?
I've long been off the track,
And mean to take it pretty soon—I'll do it
right away,
I'll change my clothes, hitch up my team, and put for town to-day,

I'll get the books; the papers to, I'll try them
for a while;
Yes, every one the children want—but won't their mother smile?"
Perhaps she'll cry, but not from grief, as often she has cried,
To see the very things brought home he has always been denied.

Farmer Jones come to Elizabeth
City and subscribed for the NORTH CAROLINIAN.

The Poor Farmer.

We saw the other day in one of our exchanges a little paragraph with this heading, in which it was justly said that a "poor farmer cannot conceal the fact that he is a poor farmer." Nothing can be truer. His work lies before the world. Every passer can look upon it and record his judgment. There are his houses, his barn, his out buildings, his implements his horses and cattle. If he is a poor farmer it will be seen in all these. His very house-yard and barn-yard speak of his want of industry and thrift in clear language. Yet there is no one more difficult to instruct or reform than the man who is determined to pursue his own wretched course, in the face of all his neighbors and the whole community. And there are two reasons for it. First, he loves the rum bottle; and if not this, then he is naturally lazy and a poor devil generally. In either case he has no future to live and work for; no pride or self-respect. If he is spoken to on the subject he replies that he thinks his mode of managing his farm the best; he was a farmer bred, his father a farmer before him; and he has nothing to learn on the jimcrack course of modern days, by which, though the land may yield more, the cost in making it do so is far more than what he loses. As to his stock, is opposed to stuffing cattle and producing diseases. As to his implements, when they are worn-out, he may think about getting others, but sees no use in throwing tools away that answer well enough. As to his house and garden, they are the same his father used, and if they were good enough for his father, what right had he to complain!

He has little to send to market, and that a kind neighbor takes and sells for him. Ask him why he does not raise more for marketing, and replies that it does not pay; the time and expense consumed in going to market, the wear and tear of horses and wagons, comes to more than what can be made out of it. He has reckoned it out and knows. If asked why he does not substitute a different variety of corn, oats, or other grain, for that from which he derives only half a crop, he replies that he gets along very well with what he has, and it is adapted to his land, while new sorts may not be.

Everything is managed or mismanaged in the same way. Look at the broken shelvings of his hay-wagon; his cart with a wooden linchpin in one of the axles; the wheels row with one leg; the roller, plows and harrows exposed all the year round to the weather, and some of them still lying where they were last used; the gears tied up with twine; the barnyard fence broken and the cattle roaming through the meadows and tearing to pieces his couple of poor hay-stacks; the hogs rooting up the orchard and eating the roots of the remaining grass; the fence in front of the house blown over by the wind three or four months ago and still lying there; the approach to the dwelling thick with mud, coal-ashes, flat stones or boards are to be seen. Everything indeed is in keeping, and however unpleasing and even painful it may be to others, and however impossible it may seem to others that the poor farmer cannot but see it and deplore it too, though helpless to improve, it is not so. He does not see it. He will not know it. He likes it as it is!—Germantown Telegraph.

Cost of Forage.

An abundant supply of good hay or other forage is the base or foundation of all profitable farming. High feeding makes rich manure and consequently large crops. How to produce a large supply of good forage with a small outlay of labor or money is therefore one of the most important questions to the intelligent farmer.

The following estimate showing the cost of several kinds of forage, best adapted to North Carolina, will be of interest and profit.

It costs to pull, cure and stack (not including cultivation) ten tons corn fodder, $100. It costs for seed, plowing, sowing and reaping five acres oats producing ten tons sheaf oats or hay $30. It costs for seed, plowing, sowing and cutting five acres clay or black peas (which can succeed the oat crop) and which will produce ten tons vines and peas, cut before the peas rippen, $30. It costs for plowing, manuring, harrowing and cutting a crop of crab grass on ten acres, producing 20 tons hay, $40.

It will thus be seen that 15 acres with an outlay of $100 (the cost of ten tons fodder will produce 40 tons of forage of better quality than fodder and at one-fourth the cost per ton, and your corn crop will be increased in weight by leaving the blades on the stalk.

It costs less to raise food your stock than it does to keep your fences in repair It is therefore much cheaper to pen and feed your stock, (and save the manures.) than to let it run at large.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

If you will enjoy good health, use VINEGAR BITTERS as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkable so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, or Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors, and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Jaundice.—In all cases of jaundice, rest assured that your liver is not doing its work. The only sensible treatment is to promote the secretion of the bile and favor its removal. For this purpose use VINEGAR BITTERS.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

GEO. D. POOL'S COLUMN.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalisis and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In low-rity and healthfulness it will compare favorable with any where and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built from Norfolk, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, al. in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A farm of 700 acres in Pasquotank County 10 miles from town, with fine two story dwelling, large barn, kitchen and other outhouses as also, two other dwellings, barns and other houses at different points on the farm. This farm in all cleared but 150 acres, is free from swamps and other waste land, and is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, &c. The price is $4,000 in easy payments.

A farm of 500 acres in Pasquotank County, 6 miles from town, and one mile from the River, with good new dwelling built in modern style, barn, stables, four tenant houses scattered over the farm, fine water, &c. This farm is situated on the most public road in the County, has 300 acres cleared and balance in splendid pine, oak, cypress, maple, sweet gum, and other valuable timber. It is peculiarly adapted to raising cotton, $50 per acre, net, having been realized on a part of it this year in cotton. It also grows corn, wheat, oats, and other crops well. Price $12,000 in easy payments.

Two tracts of land lying on Pasquotank River four miles from town, neatly cleared, and in good cultivation, one contains 1,000 acres, and the other 600 acres. Both have good fisheries, and the land is equal to any in this section. Price $20.00 per acre in easy payments. Also several smaller tracts for sale, ranging from 50 to 100 acres each, at low prices, and on easy terms.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotauk county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Three farms—one of 100 acres, one of 80 acres and one of 190 acres, within two miles of town, mostly cleared land. Price $25 per acre for each tract—payments on easy terms. Also many other valuable farms and town lots too numerous to mention.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1874—SEVENTH YEAR.

THE ALDINE,

An illustrated Monthly Journal, universally admitted to be the Handsomest Periodical in the world. A Representative and Champion of American Taste,

Not for Sale in Book or News Stores.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscelany of pure, light and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of the ALDINE will be most appreciated after it has been bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original codception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quality of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost? and then, there are the chromo, besides

ART DEPARTMENT, 1874.

The illustrations of THE ALDINE have won a world wide reputation, and in the art centres of Europe it is an admitted fact teat i's wood cuts are examples of the highest perfection ever attained. The common prejudice in favor of "steel plates," is rapidly yielding to a more educated and discriminating taste which recognizes the advantages of superior artistic quality with greater facilities of production. The wood-cuts of THE ALDINE, possess all the delicacy and elaborate finish of the most costly steel plate, while they afford a better rendering of the artist's original.

To fully realize the wonderful work which THE ALDINE is doing for the cause of art culture in America, it is only necessary to consider the cost to the people of any other decent representations of the productions of great painters.

In addition to designs by the members of the National Academy, and other noted American artists, THE ALDINE will reproduce examples of the best foreign masters, selected with a view to the highest artistic success and greatest general interest. Thus the subscriber to THE ALDINE will, at the trifling cost, enjoy in his own home, the pleasures and refining influences of true art.

The quarterly tinted plates for 1874 will be by Thos. Morgan and J. D. Woodward.

The Christmas issue for 1874 will contain special designs appropriate to the season, by our best artists, and will surpass in attractiveness any of its predecessors.

Premium for 1874.

Every subscriber to THE ALDINE for the year 1874 will receive a pair of chromos. The original pictures were painted in oil for the publishers of THE ALDINE, by Thos. Moran, whose great Colorado picture was purchased by Congress for ten dollars. The subjects were chosen to represent "The East" and "The West." One is a view of the White Mountains New Hampshire; the other gives the Cliffs of Green River, Wyoming, Territory. The difference in the nature of the scenes themselves is a pleasing contrast, and affords a good display of the artist's scope and coloring. The chromos are each worked from thirty distinct plates, and are in size (12 x 16) and appearance exact the similes of the originals. The presentation of a worthy example of America's greatest landscape painter to the subscribers of THE ALDINE was a bold but peculiarly happy idea, and its successful realization is attested by the following testimonal, over the signature of Mr. Moran himself.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 20, 1873.
MESSRS. JAMES SUTTON & Co.

Gentlemen:—I am delighted with the proofs in color of your chromos. They are wonderfully successful representations by mechanical process of the original paintings.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) THOS. MORAN.

These chromos are in every sense American. They are by an original American process, with material manufacture, from designs of American scenery by an American Art Journal. If no better because of all this, they will certainly possess an interest no foreign production can inspire and neither are they any worse if by reason of peculiar facilities of production they cost the publishers only a trifle, while equal in every respect to other chromos that are sold singly for double the subscription of THE ALDINE. Persons of taste will prize these pictures for themselves—not for the price they did or did not cost, and will appreciate the enterprize that renders their distribution possible.

If any subscriber should indicate a preference for a figure subject, the publishers will send "Thoughts of Home," a new and beautiful chromo, 14 x 20 inches representing a little Italian exile whose speaking eyes betray the longings of his heart.

TERMS.

A YEAR.

$5 per annum, in advance, with Oil Chromos free.

For 50 cents extra the chromos will be sent mounted, varnished and prepaid by mail.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtained only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rate; cash for subscriditions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the facsimile signature of JAMES SUTTON & Co.

THE SUN.

WEEKLY, SEMI-WEEKLY, AND DAILY

THE WEEKLY SUN is too widely known to require any extended recomendation; but the reasons which have already given it fifty thousand subscribers, and which will, we hope, give it many thousand more, are briefly as follows:

It is a first-rate newspaper. All the news of the day will be found in it, condensed when unimpotant, at full length when of moment, and always presented in a clear, intelligible, and interesting manner.

It is a first-rate famil paper, full of entertaining and instructive reading of every kind, but containing nothing that can offend the most delicate and scrupulous taste.

It is story paper. The best tails and romances of current litereture are carefuly selected and legibly printed in its pages.

It is a first agricultural paper. The most fresh and instructive articles on agricultural topics regularly appear in this department.

It is an independent political paper, belonging to no partie and waring no collar. It fights for principle, and for the election of the best men to office. It especially devotes its energies to the exposure of the great corruptions that now weaken and disgrace our country, and threaten to undermine republican institutions altogether. It has no fear of knaves, and asks no favors from their supporters.

It reports the fashions for the ladies and the markets for the men, especially the cattle-markets, to which it pays particular attention.

Finally, it is the cheapest paper published. One dollar a year will secure it for and subscriber. It is not necessary to get up a club in order to have the weekly sun at this rate. Any one who sends a single dollar will get the paper for one year.

We have no travelling agents.

THE GREAT BALOON.

You've heard about the great balloon,
In which Professor Wise
Proposed to go to Europe,
By sailing through the skies,
He proposed to show the people
A quicker way for trips
Than ever had been known before,
By sailing o'er in ships.

Well everything seemed lovely
Upon that Autumn day,
When they began to pump in gas
To bear the barge away.
They pumped and pumped with all their power,
And things seemed nigh adjusted—
When there came an awful crash,
And the mighth bubble busted.

It's ever thus in human life,
Go whereso'er we may,
The darkest night will oft succeed
The brightest, sunniest day,
There are exceptions to this rule,
Where all the days are fair,—
For one, go down to JOHNSON'S HALL,
You'll find things all right there.

We've thought it best in cases like this,
This little fact to mention;
You need not ferr that they'll inflate
Beyond their power of retention.
And when they undertake to go
Their geer's so well adjusted,
They'll move straigh forward to their work,
With no fear of being "busted."
